THE BOOK-IT LIST

Alpine chic

Make the most of the snow-laden slopes (and the après-ski) at one of these luxury spots

CHALET IONA

Méribel, France

Best for... alpine vistas

The Last Chalet in the Village is the moniker for this tucked-away gem in Les Allues. While just short car ride from Méribel it feels a world away. With six en-suite bedrooms and a dedicated car and butler service, you can be sure of some serious relaxation after a day on the slopes. Rest those aching limbs in the outdoor hot tub while quaffing a glass of bubbly, and indulge in fine dining created by your very own chef. Magical!
From £14,800 for 12 people for a week; skifrance.co.uk

HOTEL COURCHENEIGE

Courchevel, France

Best for... those who enjoy the après as much as the ski If the thought of having to traipse to the nearest chairlift every morning fills you with dread, Hotel Courcheneige is for you. A ski-in, ski-out hotel with a prime spot beside one of Courchevel's busiest slopes, it was designed with the lazy skier in mind. From £320 per night for a double room, including half-board; courcheneige.com

THE HOTEL MONTJOLA

St Anton, Austria

Best for... peaceful nights in a rocking resort A quiet refuge away from the lively après bars, the Montjola is a five-minute walk downhill to town and the main lifts, and 10 minutes back; less energetic guests can take the minivan service. Once you're back at the hotel, the cosy lounge, with large sofas and a well-stocked bar, is the perfect place for a quiet night in. From £949 per person (based on two sharing); vip-chalets.com

HOTEL LE FITZ ROY

Val Thorens, France

Best for... a picture-perfect chalet experience Imagine the very idyll of a ski chalet (if bigger), and you have Le Fitz Roy. A ski-in, ski-out hotel with a terrace facing the slopes, it has open fires, stag heads, wood panelling cosy blankets to curl up under. There's a spa, an indoor pool, and a lovely restaurant to refuel after a day exploring Europe's highest ski resort. From £270 per night; hotelfitzroy.com
