The Latest Summer and Winter Deals

A summer holiday in the Alps can be just as sporty and fun as a winter one, with the scenery every bit as beautiful. Activities include road biking and mountain biking, swimming in natural lakes, hiking, golf and horse-riding. It's a great way to keep your ski-fitness levels up! And we also have a few offers for next winter – just scroll lower down the page.

This Summer

Flaine apartment from £136pp with Summer France

Save more than 40% on an active holiday in Flaine, where you can make the most of the Flaine Summer Pass, which is free for people staying four nights or more at the three-star Résidence Les Terrasses de Veret. Each apartment (sleeping up to 10) features a fully-equipped kitchen, living area and a balcony or terrace. The pass gives access to numerous sporting activities and cultural events such as archery, tennis, a laser rifle course, a Jiu Jitsu session, and classical concerts. A week's stay, from June 30, costs from £34pp (£136 total – was £241 total, so a saving of 43%) for a one-bedroom apartment, sleeping up to four people. This is accommodation-only, with flights and transfers extra. Bookings: Summer France.

Oz-en-Oisans for dog lovers from £50pp per night with VIP Chalets

Each year, humans and dogs compete in tandem at the Canicross event in the Alpe d'Huez area. The race involves cross-country running with dogs attached by a harness to their owners. This year, Oz-en-Oisans will host the first three stages of the race from Saturday August 4 to Monday August 6. Canine-lovers who want to watch the race can do so during a holiday to Alpe d'Huez, which is connected by chair-lift to Oz-en-Oisans. Chalet La Ferme sleeps ten in three twin and two double bedrooms, all with en-suite bathroom and balcony. There's also a wet suite with sauna and hot-tub. From £50pp per night based on a minimum three nights' self-catering in August. Half board upgrade available at extra cost. Bookings: VIP Chalets.

Val d'Isere relay race for 60€ pp

Fancy taking part in the Odlo High Trail Vanoise, which is from July 6 to 8 and starts and finishes in the centre of Val d'Isere? The 70km route with more than 5000 metres of vertical ascent and descent is challenging, and includes climbing to the summit of the Grande Motte Glacier. To encourage more participants, a new relay race has been introduced for the 2018 programme. The first leg of the race is 35km long with 2300 metres of ascent, and the second part of the race (for the second runner) is 35km long and climbs 3000 metres. It costs 60€ pp to enter. Information: High Trail Vanoise.
